THE CAST

attle Walrick Dorothy Mackaye in the conventional rolls of the little man whom people throw about, and Walter Jones is good as the butler who sees spooks and drinks whisky.

THE CAST

attle Walrick Dorothy Mackaye in the last Hazel Dawn farce it was a camisole. Mr. Woods, however, would hardly be content, to put out a farce under his trademark unless of "Getting Gertie's Garter" does not take place in a boudoir, but in a barn. In fact the play entirely reverses the usual dramatic offering. This time we have straw without bricks.
